Mr. Charles W. Powers, who is something more than a passive student of State politics, says that one of the great mistakes made by the Essex County Republican leaders in State politics is the caucus of Assemblymen-elect from Essex County, and which has come to be known throughout the State as the Essex caucus. "It acts," says Mr. Powers, "like a shout of defiance to the rest of the State and causes the Assemblymen from other North Jersey counties to strike bands with South Jersey for mutual protection against the Essex alliance. The Essex caucus is a strike for plume, but invariably ends in the gathering of crumbs that fall from the South Jersey table." This year again, despite the fierce opposition of Essex to the plans of the South Jerseymen, it was ready to gather the crumbs which fell from the feast table. It is significant, too, that the South Jersey combination which won so handily, with Bradley for Speaker and Horner for leader, allowed Essex such a liberal share of the good things. It may be altogether unselfish, but to the ordinary observer it looks like a shrewd political move, which may show its purpose later M. w. and 7.30 P. M. Sunday-school at on. If Essex had been left entirely in the cold, with nothing for its little army of hungry men. it would have been in the best of positions to command the situation in the coming session, and contingencies might arise which would leave that situation greatly to be deplored by the South Jersey leaders. They are a pretty shrewd lot down that way, and they count more than a week ahead when they are figuring on pol-

Not much is heard as to what the Legislature is likely to do in the way of impossible. The spects of paper, allaw-making or law-tinkering. Important things for its consideration are the proposed constitutional amendments which were passed by the last Legislature, and which, if ratified by the coming body, will go to the people for acceptance or rejection at a special election. The most important of these amendments are those providing for blennial sessions of Then the bundles are unwrapped and the Legislature, the creation of an in- the sheets are counted twenty-eight dependent Court of Appeals, and extend- times by a corps of women. The most expensive loss which has thus occurred was of peal, and that an independent court la the only solution of many present diffi-culties. One of the most earnest ad-vocates of blennial sessions has been General Sewell himself, and with him disabled, it is feared that this step for reform will fail. It is not liked by the little country leaders, who look upon the a: n rai election of members of the As-at half election of members of the Assembly as one of the best means of keeping things political in trim.

It is pretty certain that the Meeker election law will come up for revision, if not repeal. The consolidation of the spring elections with those of the fall has not proven all that was desired from a political standpoint and the new income. has not proven all that was desired from a positical standpoint, and the new law is full of unforescen complications, which must needs be straightened out by the coming session. Just what will happen to the law is one of the problems, for there are any number of plans proposed for its putching and tinkering.
